On the Way to Angels Camp

WorldMark Angels Camp overlooks the Greenhorn Creek Golf Club and is part of a beautiful recreation and residential development. The club's restaurant, Camps, is known for serving some of the finest food in the area. You'll find the environment suitable for long walks, and you won't want to miss the unforgettable sunset over the hills to the west of the resort.

The town of Angels Camp is best known as the backdrop for Mark Twain's first published story "The Celebrated Jumping Frog of Calaveras County." Every year just prior to Memorial Day the town celebrates this distinction by throwing the Jumping Frog Jubilee. You'll find many throwbacks to the Gold Rush era throughout Angels Camp, from the nineteenth-century clothes on the line across Main Street to the mini-Main Street in the visitor's center parking lot.

Many historical attractions surround your resort, traces of the famous California Gold Rush. You could say that scenic Calaveras County is a literal gold mine for visitors. Historic and picturesque Gold Rush towns dot the landscape, along with award-winning vineyards and tasting rooms, micro-breweries, art galleries, museums and antique shops.

Angels Camp itself was one of the earliest and largest Gold Rush camps. Several good strikes were made here by the 4,000-plus miners who worked the area. Increase your Gold Rush knowledge with a visit to the Angels Camp Museum. Here you'll find artifacts from that era, a collection of mining equipment, blacksmith and foundry exhibits and 25 antique carriages.

From the east on Hwy 4

Murphys—just eight miles away on Hwy 4—is home to the majority of Calaveras County wineries. Chatom Winery is on Route 4, and many smaller tasting rooms are mixed among the many restaurants and shops on Main Street. Ironstone Vineyards and Stevenot Winery are the largest operations in town. Take a left on Algiers Road from Main Street to get to Ironstone; turn right on Sheep Ranch Road to find Stevenot.

From the south on Hwy 49

Sonora, 17 miles southeast of Angels Camp on Hwy 49, is a hub of tourist activity. Established in 1848, this town now enjoys the distinction of being the region's premier shopping area. Sonora's historic Main Street is lined with specialty shops, clothing stores, fine art galleries and restaurants. The town also boasts many well-maintained Victorian homes. Visit the Tuolumne County Museum, housed in the 125-year-old county jail. Just south of Sonora is Jamestown and the Railtown 1897 State Historic Park. Catch a steam train for an excursion from the Sierras to the plains along one of the oldest railroads in the West.

From the north on Hwy 49

Northwest of Angels Camp is the town of San Andreas, named after the patron saint of early area miners—not the infamous fault! San Andreas has a checkered past, with one of its most colorful citizens being none other than Black Bart. Handsome and debonair, Black Bart was a stagecoach bandit who never harmed drivers or passengers. This eccentric criminal often left bits of original limerick verse at the crime scene. The jail that held Bart after he was apprehended still stands as part of the County Museum.

For more information about the area, call or visit the Calaveras County Visitor's Bureau in downtown Angels Camp at 1-800-225-3764 or online at www.visitcalaveras.org.
