On the Way to Canmore and Banff

This section includes points of interest and side trips along the way to the resort. For the most direct route, see "Driving Directions" below.

From Calgary, Alberta, Canada

While in Calgary ...

Canmore and Banff are less than two hours' drive west (80 miles) on Highway 1 (Trans-Canada Highway), so why not discover Calgary on the banks of the Bow River before making the leisurely drive to Canmore?

A good place to start your exploration of Calgary is Calgary Tower. Built and opened in 1968, the tower is 626 feet high and remains the city's undisputed vantage point offering breathtaking 360-degree views. Grab lunch at the revolving Panorama Dining room before heading to the Glenbow Museum, Western Canada's largest and home to nearly 30,000 artworks and artifacts. Three floors of the museum are permanently dedicated to Western Canada's native and cultural history, European settlement, and the construction of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

If that is not enough history for you, visit Heritage Park Historic Village, a faithful recreation of pre-1914 prairie pioneer days featuring more than 150 buildings and 45,000 exhibits--enough to lose you in time.

Plenty of shopping can be had in Calgary before hitting the road. First visit Canada's second-largest Chinatown, established in 1910. Set in antiquated contrast to Calgary's modern skyline, the district bubbles with activity in its unique shops and restaurants. The Eau Claire Festival Market, Calgary's premiere shopping attraction, is not far away.

Head west on Highway 1 toward Canmore ...

Canmore is only about an hour and fifteen minutes by car, so you should have plenty of time to sort your Canadian Rocky bearings. For a very scenic drive, take Highway 1A (Bow River Valley Parkway) out of Calgary to the west toward Banff. The route is known for its breathtaking views and wildlife. You'll likely have time to reconnect to Highway 1 at Canmore and continue on to the town of Banff, smack dab in the middle of Banff National Park. Near the town's Upper Hot Springs, an historic spa and bath house noted for its healing waters, catch the Banff Gondola, an eight-minute ride to spectacular views of the Canadian Rockies at nearly 7,500 feet above sea level. Down in town, get a first-hand account at the Buffalo Nations Museum of how First Nations people followed buffalo into the Bow Valley and packed their lives behind them on travois. The Banff Information Centre can guide you to the park's Victorian-era Banff Park

Museum National Historic Site, Western Canada's oldest natural history museum that houses carefully preserved specimens of the park's fauna. A hands-on discovery room delights kids and adults alike.

From Banff, continue on Highway 1A ... toward the little hamlet of Lake Louise and its otherworldly alpine waters, or venture north along Icfields Parkway to Columbia Icefield. Comprising six major glaciers that feed the Pacific, Arctic, and Atlantic oceans, it is one of only two "hydrological apexes" in the world. Tours are given on the Brewster Ice Explorer in spring and fall.

Head back toward Canmore on Highway 1 ...

The folks at the Canmore Museum and Geoscience Center are more than happy to help you trace the town's railway and coal mining history. And true to its pioneer legacy, the Northwest Mounted Police Barracks, built in 1892, still stands to remind Canmore residents that bootlegging was rather frowned upon at one time. Have tea in the small garden out back before heading to your resort.

Driving Directions

From Calgary, Alberta, Canada

- From Calgary International Airport, follow the signs marked "Airport Exit" on Airport Road NE. Head west for 0.2 miles.
- At the set of traffic lights, turn left onto Barlow Trail. At Country Hills Blvd., take a left and continue down Country Hills Blvd. for 10 miles.
- Take a left onto Stony Trail and follow the signs toward the Trans-Canada Highway 1 West. Get onto the highway and head west for approximately 55 minutes.
- Take the first Canmore exit, the Three Sisters Parkway exit, and turn left onto the parkway and keep right at the four-way stop. Follow for 2.7 miles.

- Turn left and the resort is dead ahead.
